A series that recalls our strong link to the earth, this earth, the cradle of all the dishes that grow on the ground and on the trees, also the cradle of everything that swims and treads the ground.

Melanie brings us to meet those who work together with Mother Earth to feed themselves and to nourish us.

She will follow the path of the ingenious work of her guests who feed themselves and nourish us through the complicity of Mother Nature. She will follow the quest of those people who have decided to breed, sow, gather, harvest, hunt and fish as a way of life.

In this adventure, Melanie invites us to follow her and live in her company a return to our edible heritage. The host herself will put her heart to work to better understand the traceability of what is found not without effort in our food.
