The modern world is a scary place – suffocating, fractured, and alienating.

On the surface, Jef is a regular guy. He's good looking, charming, and funny. He also has a good job and a beautiful girlfriend. But he just doesn't feel right. And he's not sure what to do about it.

He's bombarded by advertising messages, annoying campaigners, and friends who all claim to have solutions. Thankfully, his best friend Tom and girlfriend Shelly want to help. The only problem is their solutions are disastrous.

Together they try to solve Jef's problem, but he soon realizes that it might be something only he can fix.
