Paradise by the Dashboard Light is an unflinching look at what our world may be in the future; for better and worse... while taking a new spin on exploring the unlimited, untainted potential of the things we create. In a world where anything is possible through technology, Paradise confronts us with where morality can outpace by our inventions or vice versa.

The androids or 'Bogies' in Paradise by the Dashboard Light represent the potential for peace, beauty and poetry in humanity via our creations. Unlike other media depicting androids, the robots of Paradise are not humans lacking empathy, but imbued with the best of what humans can offer, along with some quirks and mishaps. The Bogies are created as a clean slates, mostly innocent of the darker sides of the creators, the humans, and representing self-awareness and integration of our potential.
