The springs used to live in a mattress wandering in space and were thrown on Earth during the "Big Bouïing". In their own way, according to their personality and interests, they discovered the world on which they bounced.

In each one of the vignettes, we see them dwelling on an object, a place, a situation or people, but always in a unique and different way. The stories are short, funny and without words.

The Bouïing little characters are both adorable and unpleasing. With them, according to their interests and personality, children are invited to discover the world in many ways. They will dwell on new or known things and situations, but always with the pleasure to see how our little springs explore.
