Leisure and Recreation in Canada invites us to participate in the weekly activities of Anne and Vincent, a couple who've been together for way too long, and their friends Veronique and Bruno, two singles who have nothing in common. In order to rekindle their romantic flame, the couple has decided to practice a different activity every Sunday, dragging along their friends to keep things light and diffuse the tension. From foraging for mushrooms to hunkering down in a sweat lodge, Leisure and Recreation in Canada is an insightful portrait of a modern couple that melts down before our eyes.
