The base of special agents is led by a true charismatic spy of an elite intelligence service.

Two pairs of competing agents will be deployed on the same mission and will have to locate a target to neutralize it.

The target is a true chameleon, constantly on the move.

The mission of our agents is to move in a populated environment, on a specific urban territory and in a determined duration, following secret information transmitted or collected during the adventure.

This mission mixes physical involvement, orientation, memorization, knowledge, actions and emotions. It is based on essential human values: team spirit, mutual help, self-improvement and trust.

The reward of 100,000 dollars will be for the best, if the target does not escape your nets in time.

Each episode is a new adventure and surprises are waiting for you in this adventure as fascinating as hectic and breathless. So many rebounding events await you with sleeping agents installed in clandestinely, traps with lures, coded messages to decipher...

This urban adventure is "The mission that will change your life!"
