Canal+ renews Le 422: HG Distribution confirms the extended presence of the Quebec fantasy series on the French market

The first two seasons of the series, 25 episodes in total, are renewed for an additional term, while a third season is currently in development.

Montreal, November 4th, 2026 - HG Distribution is pleased to announce that Canal+ has renewed the first two seasons of the Quebec fantasy series Le 422, a total of twenty-five (25) episodes, for an additional term. The renewal reflects the enduring appeal of this award-winning visual-effects adventure with French audiences, and underscores the lasting performance of the series on the territory.

Deal terms

Canal+ extends its rights to Seasons 1 and 2 of the series, totalling twenty-five (25) episodes. The renewal ensures French-speaking audiences will continue to follow the series through an established broadcast window.

A third season in development: a co-production opportunity

HG Distribution also confirms that a third season of Le 422 is currently in development, planned as 10 to 13 episodes of 30 minutes. The company is now seeking international co-production partners interested in joining this next chapter of the project. Broadcasters, platforms and producers are invited to connect with the HG Distribution team.

About Le 422

Le 422 follows five teenagers who enter a parallel world, tasked by the celestial being Gamma with a series of challenges to find a hidden treasure. Across two seasons, they face dangers, rivals and family secrets through thrilling ordeals. The series' award-winning visual effects bring this fantasy universe to life in a format designed for teens and family audiences.
